Working with Ancestral and Genetic Imprints Using Esogetic Therapies LIVE WEBINAR

Date: October 10th, 2020

Time: 8.30AM PST- 3PM PST

In TCM the concept of working with Ancestor spirits dates back to the shamanic roots of Chinese medicine in the Shang dynasty and there are acupuncture points which specifically target the energetic recesses of ancestral spirit expressions. These ideas express themselves in the sociological, physiological and psychological levels as trans-generational trauma which has roots in DNA transcription. Mothers and daughters, or fathers and sons present with similar pathologies, tongues and pulses and similar health complaints as they share the same DNA and generational patterning families inherit.

Epigenetic scientists discovered recently that experiences of individuals before they procreate cause their DNA to adapt to traumatic stimulus in different ways. The DNA of a person who grows up in a very cold and windy environment adapts to express genes that will allow them to cope with this particular environmental stimulus. This adaptive and useful gene expression can also be affected by wars, famines and mass genocides.

Ancestral and generational transmission of energetic imprints, personality, behavioral traits and spiritual beliefs can date back six generations but via different lifestyle choices we can aim toward prevention of these chronic health issues that are passed down to us.

In the Esogetic system Peter Mandel has developed a series of therapies called the Ophthalmic Genetic therapies that can be used to work with the phenomenology of the ancestor fields. In the naturopathic view the eyes show the genetic determinations of the spirit, soul and body. Through working with the OGT therapies we can touch the place where the overriding principles and patterns are stored. If these areas are closed through treatment we can ask why? These treatments can be useful for working with prenatal imprints and subsequent developmental delays such as autistic spectrum issues.

In this seminar you will learn:

- Ways to access and relieve intergenerational trauma through using Peter Mandel's Ophthalmic Genetic therapies.
- Understand how to assess the genetic inheritance of the mother or father in relation to illnesses affecting a client.
- Receive training in therapies for specific genetic tendencies like autism, chronic hormonal issues, fears and phobias.
- Study several case histories to understand long term strategies in working with ancestral energies.

Cost: $150.00
